Farm Market Map of Berks County

How to use this map:

1. What are you interested in buying? Check the harvest calendar to see what is available during that time of the growing season.
2. The producers, their location, and products, along with additional information are displayed to help find the item.
3. It is a good idea to call ahead before visiting a farm, to confirm location, the hours the market is open, and the availability of the product you're looking to purchase.
4. Tell the farmer you saw them on the Berks County Farm Market Map & Guide!

What is Penn State Cooperative Extension?

As one of the nation's land-grant colleges and universities, Penn State has a special mission in addition to research and classroom teaching. That mission is extension.

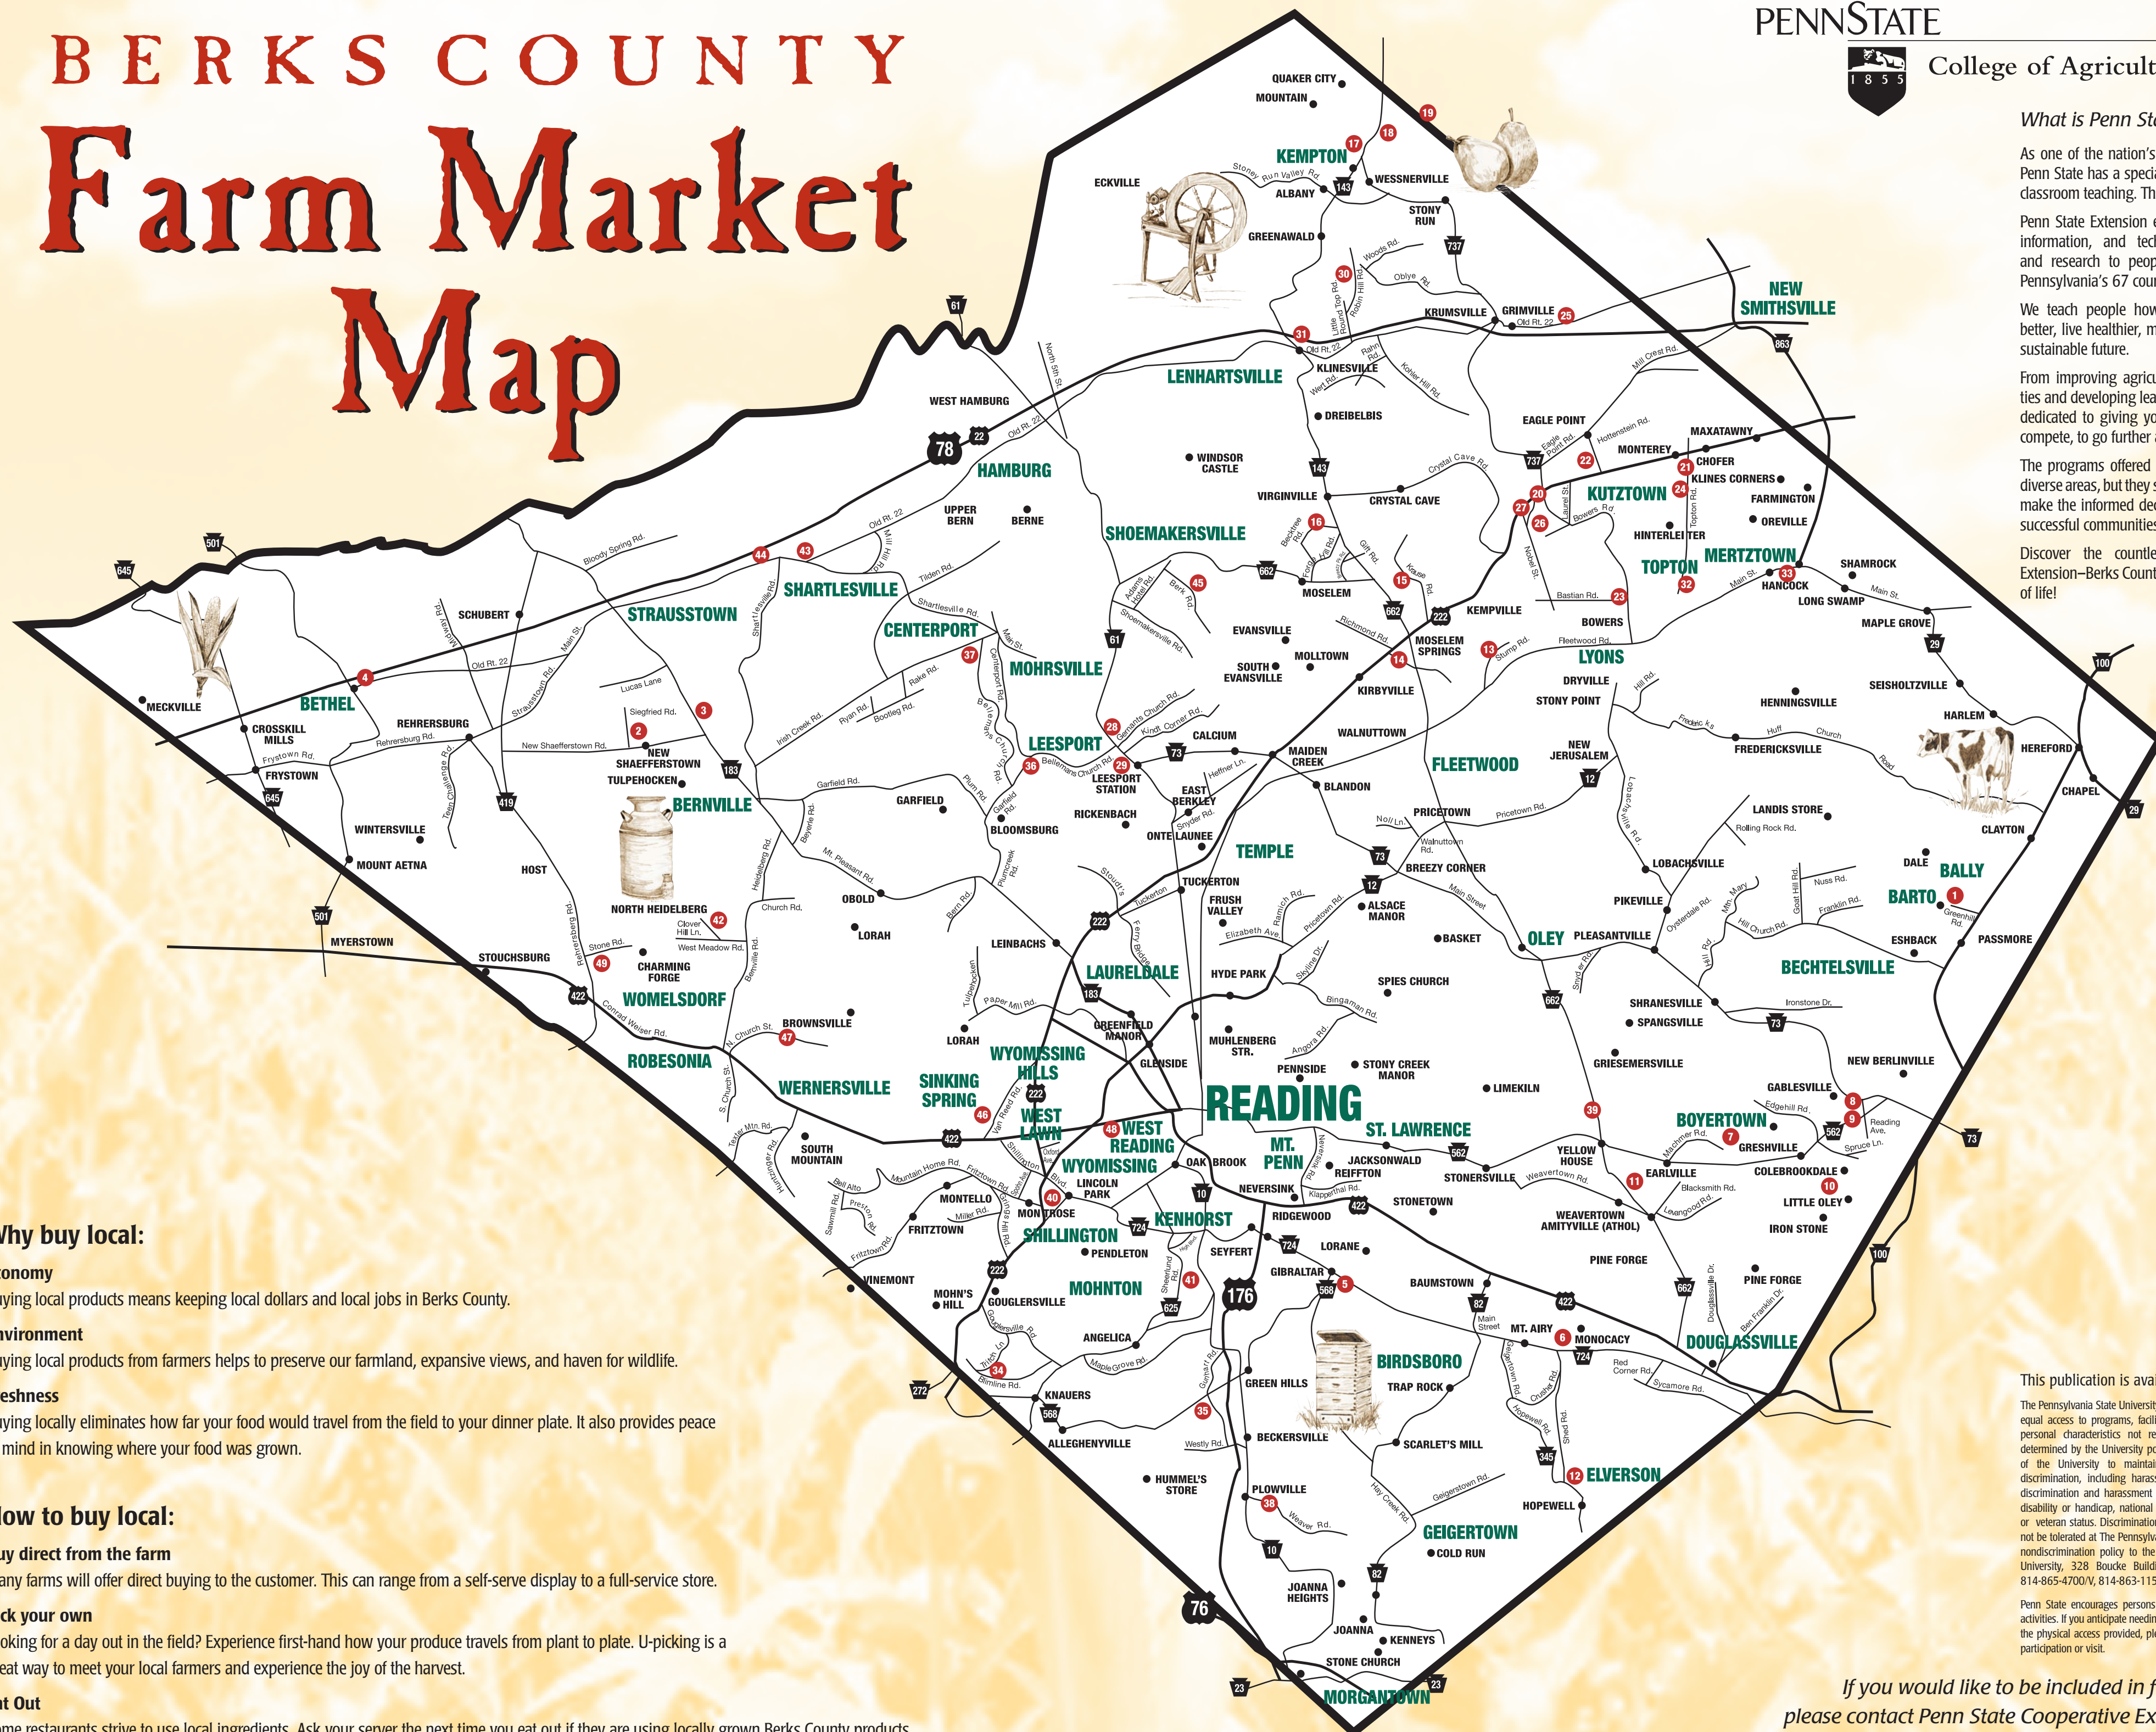

Penn State Extension extends a practical how-to education, information, and technical expertise based on science and research to people, businesses and communities in Pennsylvania's 67 counties.

We teach people how to solve problems, do something better, live healthier, manage resources wisely, and create a sustainable future.

From improving agriculture to building stronger communities and developing leadership skills in today's youth, we are dedicated to giving you the means to grow, to achieve, to compete, to go further and do more.

The programs offered by Penn State Extension cover many diverse areas, but they share a common goal — to help citizens make the informed decisions that are necessary for healthy, successful communities.

Discover the countless ways Penn State Cooperative Extension—Berks County can help you to grow a better quality of life!

Why buy local:

Economy

Buying local products means keeping local dollars and local jobs in Berks County.

Environment

Buying local products from farmers helps to preserve our farmland, expansive views, and haven for wildlife.

Freshness

Buying locally eliminates how far your food would travel from the field to your dinner plate. It also provides peace of mind in knowing where your food was grown.

How to buy local:

Buy direct from the farm

Many farms will offer direct buying to the customer. This can range from a self-serve display to a full-service store.

Pick your own

Looking for a day out in the field? Experience first-hand how your produce travels from plant to plate. U-picking is a great way to meet your local farmers and experience the joy of the harvest.

Eat Out

Some restaurants strive to use local ingredients. Ask your server the next time you eat out if they are using locally grown Berks County products.
