County of Berks announces building closure extended due to ongoing snowstorm

Reading, PA— 2/1/2021 — The Berks County Commissioners and President Judge Thomas G. Parisi have decided to extend the closure of all County buildings throughout Tuesday, Feb. 2, due to the ongoing severe snowstorm that is expected to continue overnight. The closure does not apply to the County’s 24/7 operations. Employees of 24/7 operations should follow their department’s inclement weather policy.

Many county departments and staff will continue to work remotely during the building closure. The County plans to still hold the live, virtual Operations meeting at 9:30 a.m. A link for the meeting can be accessed here. The County will post any further storm-related updates to the County of Berks homepage at www.countyofberks.com, on County social media channels and through the local media.
